AUDITORIUM LECTURE
October 15, 1967 3:30 p.m.

Roman Vishniac of New York will discuss "The Art of Photography" in an auditorium lecture at The Cleveland Museum of Art, Sunday, October 15 at 3:30 p.m. Mr. Vishniac, educated in both biology and art, will relate these two subjects in color film and slide studies he has made of the microscopic world.

Mr. Vishniac has taught biology at a university and a medical school and done research in far eastern art and in cytology; he has written articles in biological periodicals and produced a film called "Living Biology". His films and slides are not only of scientific worth, but have artistic value as well.
